Information Literacy is the skill that empowers people to access information effectively for personal, social, occupational, and educational goals. Knowing how to identify and locate accurate information forms the basis for lifelong learning and will help you find the exact information for your specific needs. Whether you are reading the news, accessing social media, or applying for jobs, Information Literacy is a skill you will use and need throughout your life. Our series of short films will cover core skills to help you become an information expert.

Film 1 – Where to Find Information in Guernsey

The first film in the series gives an overview of the places that students can source physical information and resources in Guernsey. This 3-minute information film outlines where to find the local Libraries and museums, what information they provide and when they open.
